"In the spring of 1891," writes another, "I found myself in bad health. I had no appetite, and the little I did eat did no good, gave me no strength. I had great pain and weight at the chest and right side, and my skin turned yellow and dry. My kidneys also acted badly, and from time to time I had attacks of gravel; and cold, clammy, sweating sweats broke out all over me. For some seven or eight days I was in bed, and began I was greatly alarmed and anxious. No doctor was able to help me, and I continued thus for over three years. In June, 1894, I began to use Mother Seigel's Syrup and soon felt better, higher, and more cheerful. And by taking it a few weeks longer I recovered my health and strength. Since then, when I have a headache, or liver, or bilious symptoms I resort to Mother Seigel's Syrup and it never fails to set me right. You can publish this letter. (Signed) G. Hamlin, 6, New Inn Lane, Gloucester, May 31st, 1895."

The stomach, the liver, and the kidneys are all connected parts of the food and digestive system. When disordered (usually through torpidity of the stomach) they "upset the body and throw it into a train of ailments, and the most common signs of ailment over the entire system consist of gloom of anything—wrong with them use Mother Seigel's Syrup at once.

Ly misquoting of letters duplicated, we offer a number of Prizes at Cost Price, $200.—W. Robinson & Co.

BAACON—I see Debs, that Western labor agitator, says that he's wedded to his work. Sigher—That settles it. Marriage is a failure!

Younge Chap—Why did that man who was here call your cigars 'weeds,' he! Old Block—Because, my son, that's what they are. Your ma bought 'em.
